Repair, Repeat, Re-use

Catering to the 1%

05:00 PM

Architecture in the country is usually governed by the economy and minimal necessity. Only luxury architecture and a sizeable budget churn out structures dipped in aesthetics and experience. Is this 'mass v/s class' gap a stringent phenomenon, or can the distance be bridged through thoughtful perseverance?

The Art of Museum Design

A Presentation Series

04:00 PM

Museums have been a part of our building history for decades. From the rigidly gigantic designs to innovating an experiential space, the new-age century has redefined the art of designing Museums in its own way.

Experiential space making, innovative themes, technological advancements, changing definitions of art, curatorial skills are some of the imaginative solutions that have made these Museums relevant in a rapidly changing decade.

Space. Memory. Time. | Exploring a Case For Adaptive Re-Use

05:00 PM

As a practice, Adaptively Re-using spaces has emerged as a flexible, economically viable, and sustainable alternative to the conventional way of building. Apart from being historical markers or culturally significant symbols, these could be identified and transformed to effectively activate spaces not only within specific boundaries but also go beyond - possibly culminating in the regeneration of space at the urban scale.

Through this, let's explore the many layers that exist when it comes to the rehabilitation of spaces by breathing new life into them.

Nature Oreinted Homes

04:00 PM

As cities have become uncomfortably congested, some homeowners are opting for contemporary abodes that blur the line between architecture and nature. These nature integrating and biophilic homes display the best of both worlds.

Let's look at some of the exquisite nature integrated homes!

Works of Auroville

05:00 PM

Auroville marks as an experimental township in the state of Tamil Nadu. It is a masterpiece in itself with path-breaking designs and innovations. Considered as a hotbed of creative eco-experimentation, Auroville is a mixed bag of contemporary design thinkers coming together and sharing a common goal of futurist ecological architecture. Let's Tour this city of experimentation from the eyes of the design thinkers

Design - A collaborative Outcome

05:00 PM

Creating a design has a multi-faceted approach which involves a collaborative of different sets of ideas and innovations. Having a specialist in each category of these facets makes a design collaborative and detailed. Working towards one unified idea also allows us to learn collective processes and knowledge. Collaborative design is a great facilitation tool that helps us to get the best ideas on the table by engaging various different stakeholders with different perspectives.
